

Download the files as a ZIP

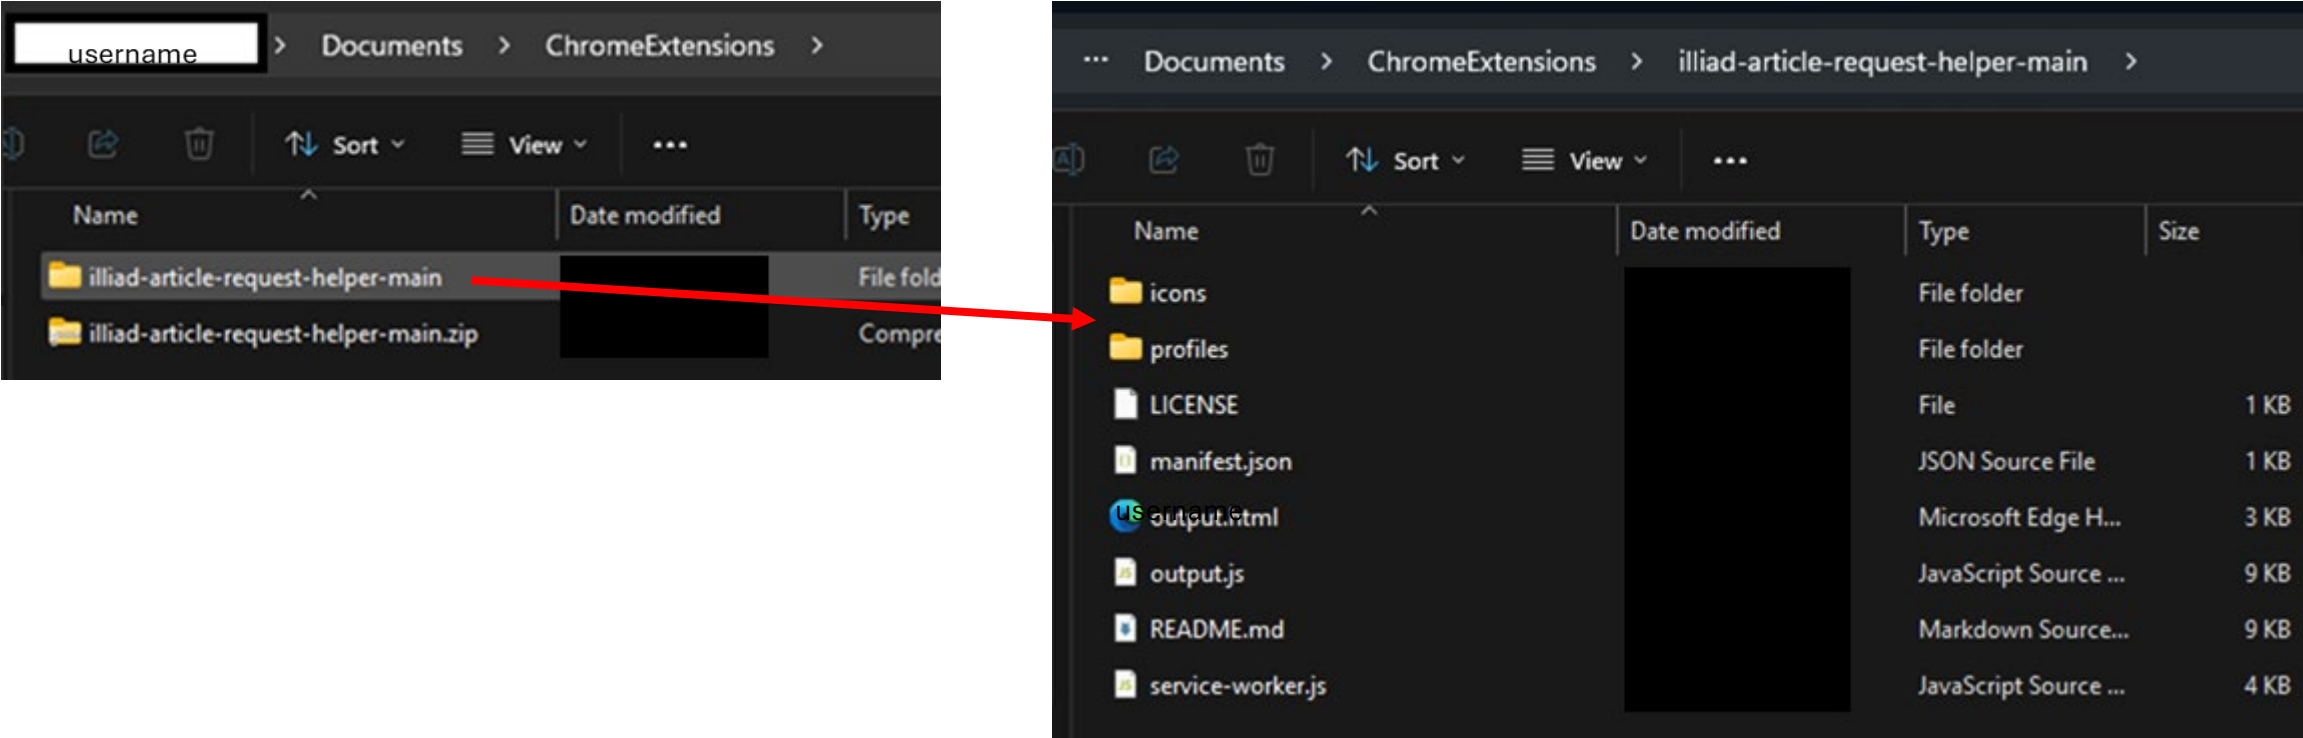

Save the ZIP in a preferred location

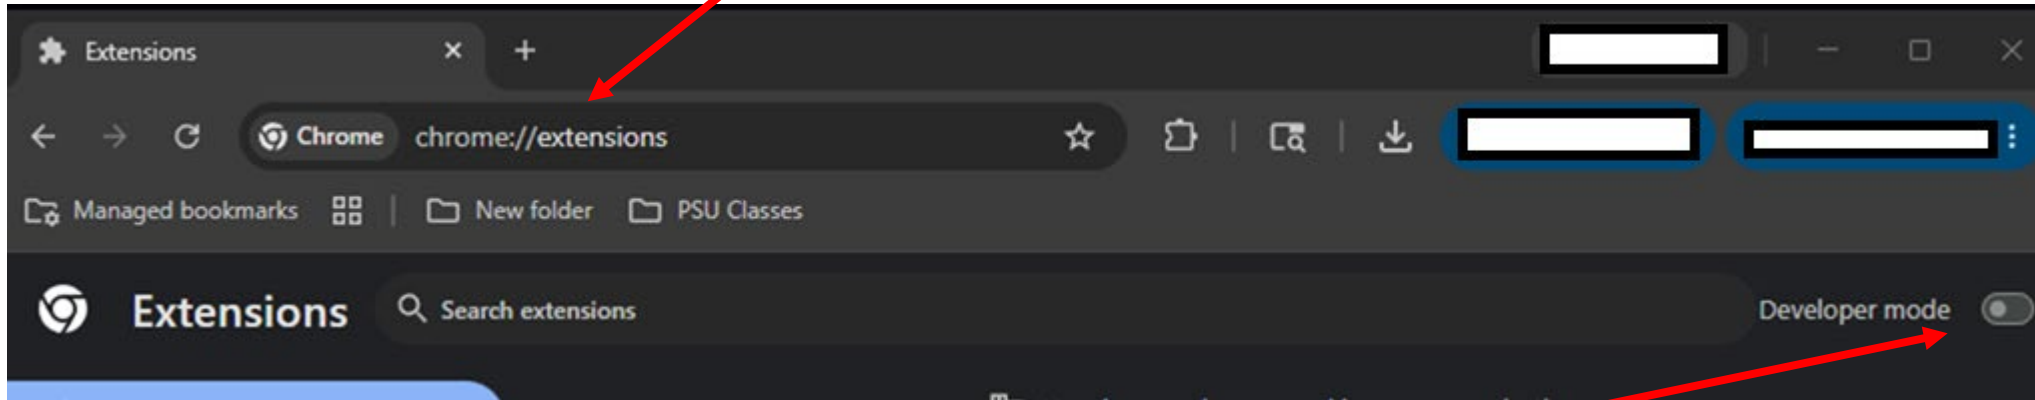

Right click and extract the ZIP

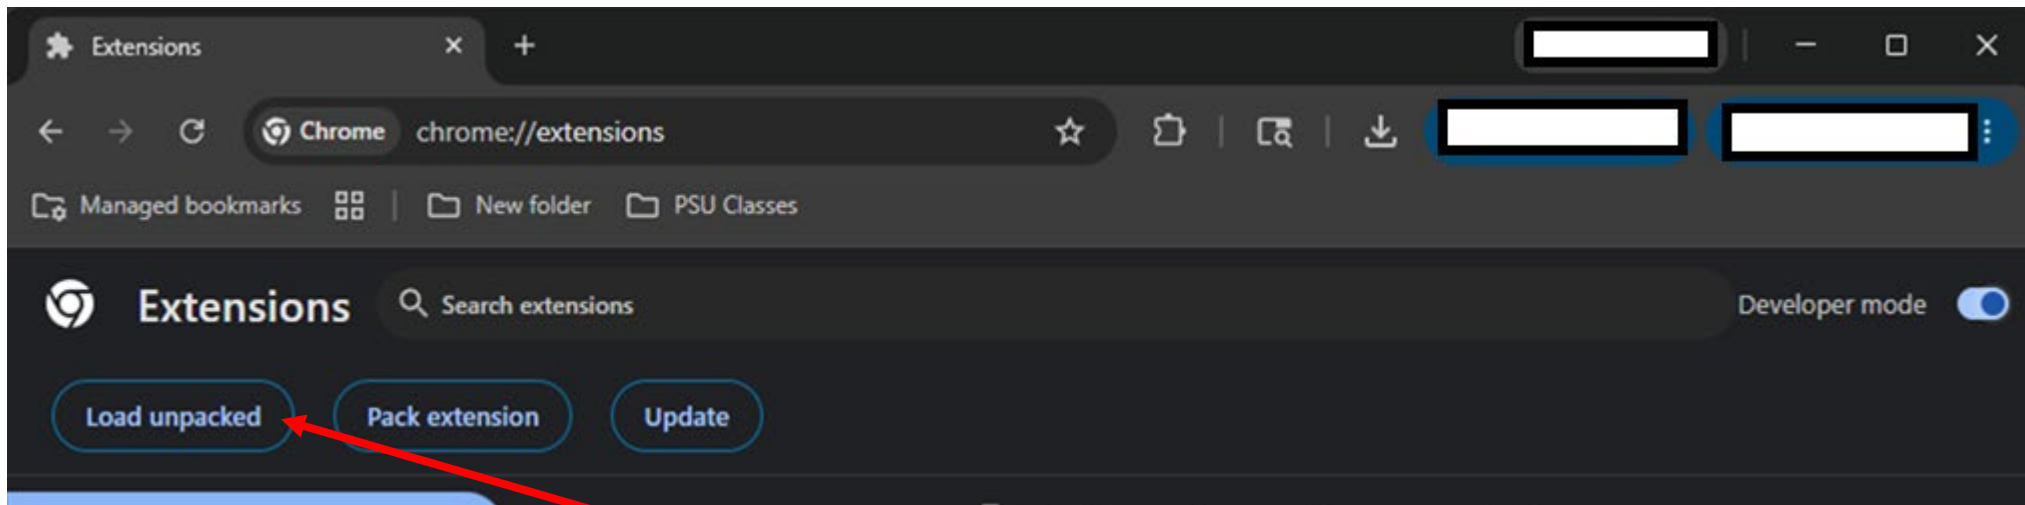

You should now have a folder with all the extracted files

Open Google Chrome and navigate to chrome://extensions.

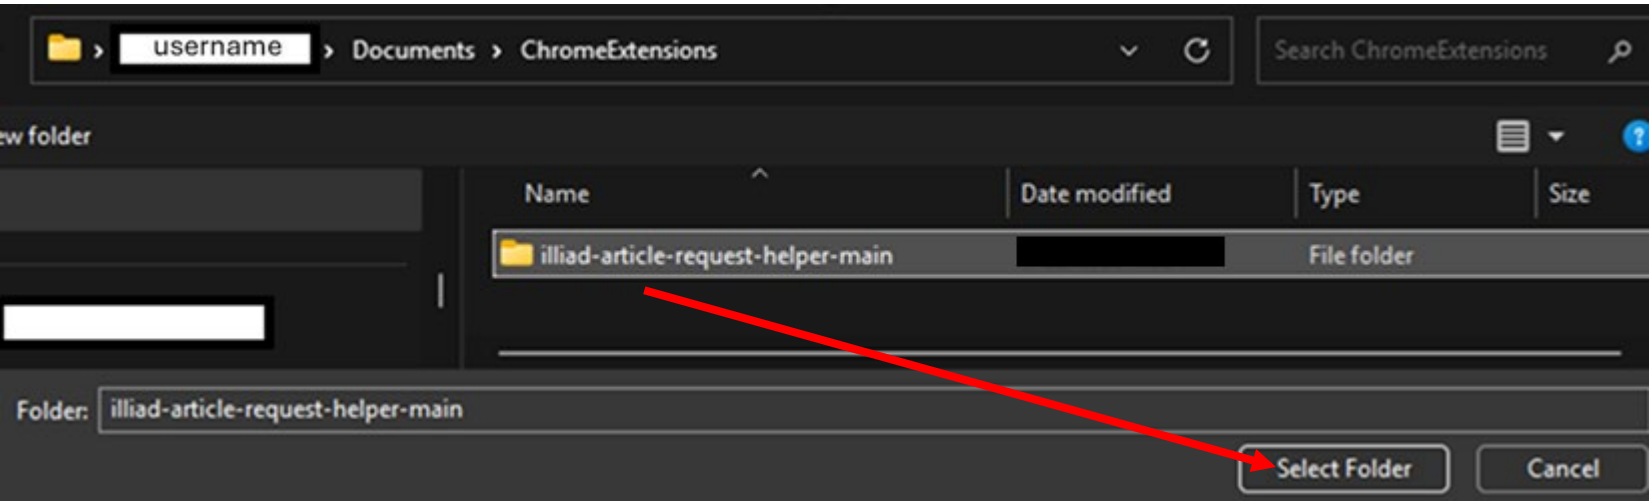

Enable “Developer mode” by clicking on the right-hand side.

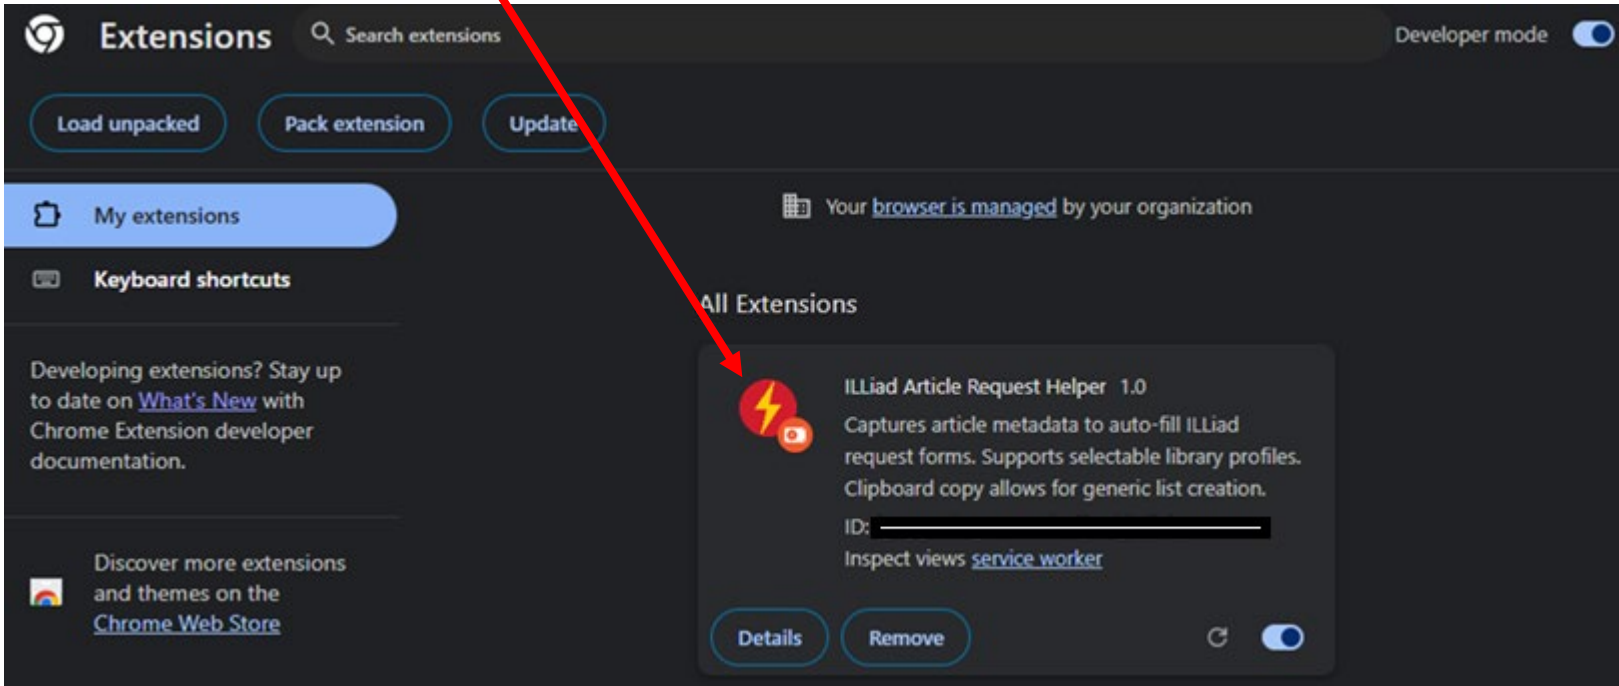

You should now be able to select “Load unpacked” and select your unzipped folder with the extracted files.

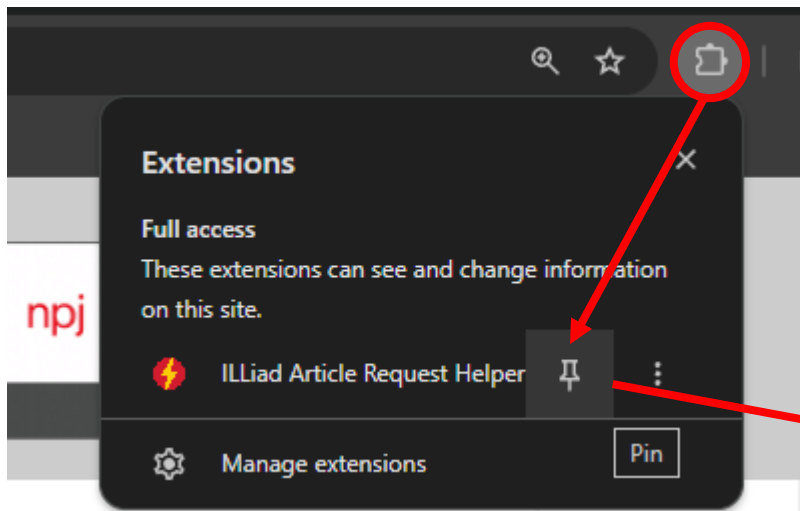

Select your unzipped file folder.

You should now see “ILLiad Article Request Helper” listed

On the right-hand side of the address bar, click the puzzle piece to show your extensions. Click the pin icon to keep ILLiad Article Helper visible at all times.

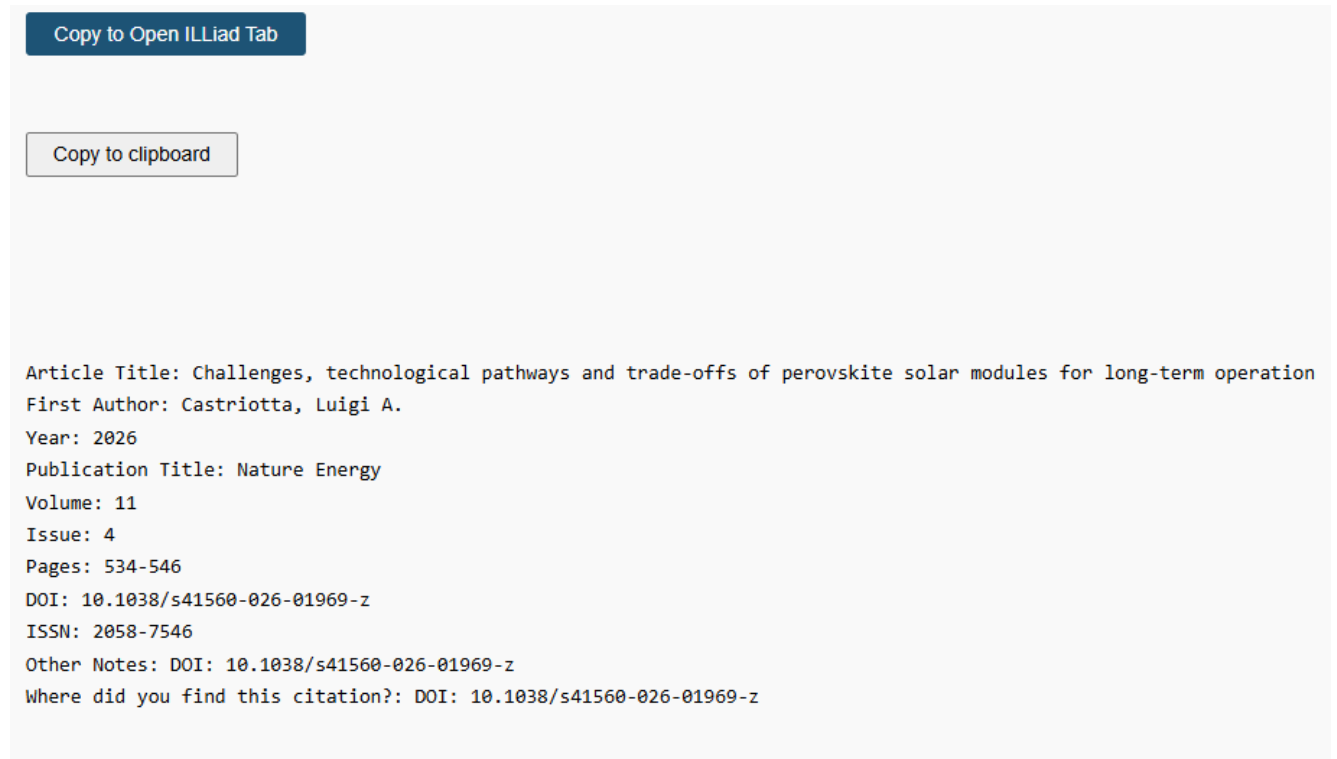

Navigate to a research paper you would like to request and click the “ILLiad Article Helper” extension icon

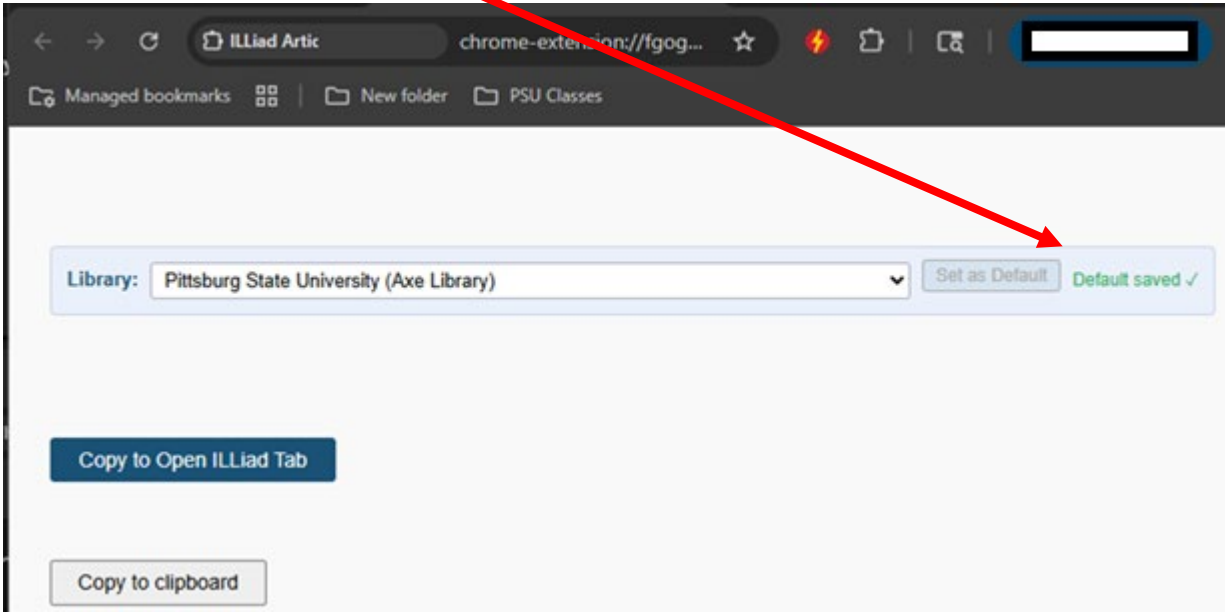

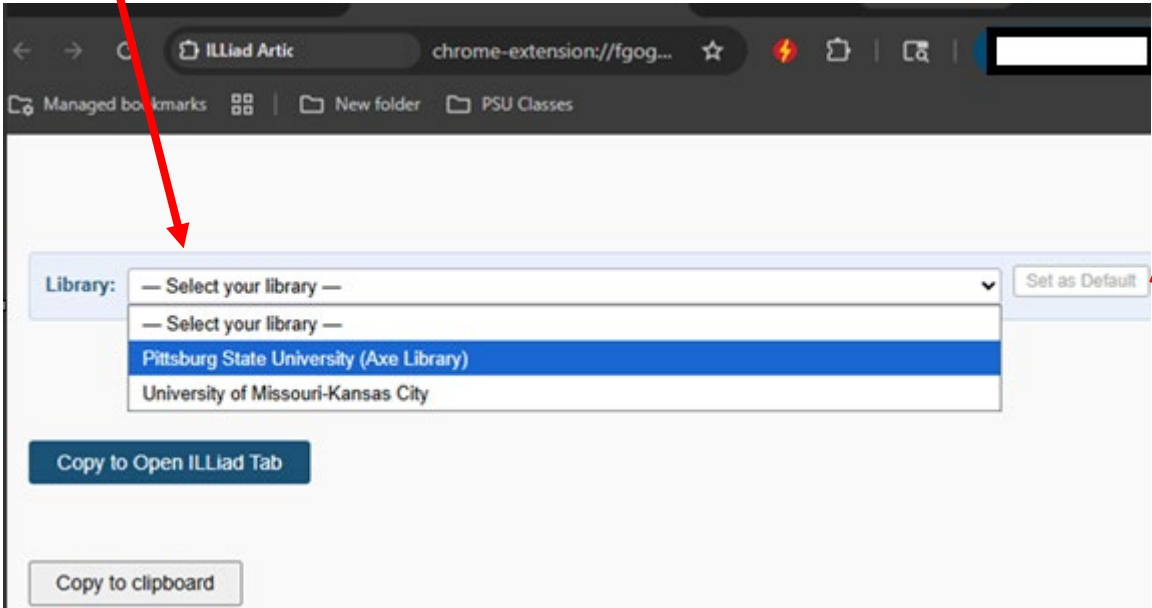

A new tab should open showing the metadata pulled from the article’s website and options for data processing.

Copying to clipboard, allows for pasting into whatever document or text file you wish.

During initial use, select your library to load the library profile for copy/paste. You can set your library selection as a default, and you can change your default at anytime during use.

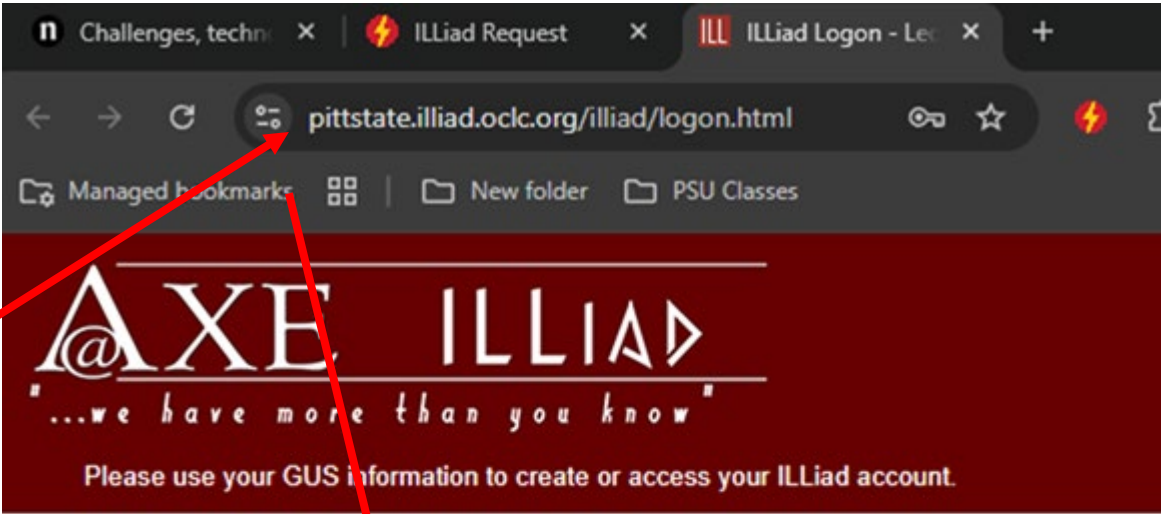

If you click “Copy to Open ILLiad Tab” and no ILLiad tab is open, you will be prompted to open one and log in. Note, the link provided will be the base link for your particular ILLiad portal and may require further navigation to reach the article request page.
